OUT & ABOUT

Happy Easter from Brooke and Patti Baker.

This photo was taken by Carol Ellis one February morning this season, as a mother Great Blue Heron (white morph) stands with the three babies in her nest located on the small mangrove island off Pumpkin Cay. At the recent Eco-Fair a life-size print of the photo was displayed, as part of a contest to "Name that Bird" and bring awareness to wildlife. The winner was Katherine Yalamanchili, age 10, pictured here with mom Marissa. The name she suggested was "Pumpkin", and the three babies: Casey, Lola and Trey. The entry stood out because the name reflects where she lives in Pumpkin Creek. Katherine loves to spend time at the Nature Center and visit the cats at ORCAT. She is excited to read her prize – a copy of "Critters in our Midst", which is available at the Gift Shop.

Earlier this month, the Wright family joined ORC Naturalist Jeanette Rivera on an Everglades Alligator Farm Tour. Pictured here is five-year-old Bram Rosenberg, eight-year-old Warner Rosenberg and "Nana" Deb Wright, who said Jeanette was a fabulous guide and her grand-boys loved it!

Marcy Aultman and Everton go back decades and enjoyed catching up at his Rum Bar this month.

The Oceanaires were at it again, spending the season, coached by Annie Lebeaux of the Key Largo Angler's Club, to a glorious musical finale. Oh, the songs we sang ("500 Miles," "Lemon Tree", and "The Cruel War" from Peter, Paul and Mary), to a sponsored ad, "Chiquita Banana", (Would You Believe), and other heartfelt songs, ending with "The Beatles Blast" ("This Girl", "Nowhere Man" And "Help"). Help? No need for help here, the Oceanaires are blessed with amazing Annie, and wonderful audiences. -Sherley Newell. Pictured from left to right: Esther Lerner Carrico, Helen Emmert, Eileen Mullray, Barbara Pearson, Roz Smith, Susan Hirschbiel, Cyn Barrette, Sherley Newell, Janet Reynolds, Cynthia Weglarz, Carol Cameron, Denise Bermant, and Pat Isenberg.

The Season of Strange

by Felicia M. Koretsky

Once upon a simpler time—not long ago—the scariest thing on our radar was a hurricane or a little rising of our sea levels. Ah, the good old days—just us, a cone of uncertainty, and an internal debate over whether to buy bottled water or move in the patio furniture.

But after the last few months that cone feels downright nostalgic. Like a rotary phone. Or a quaint sepia-toned photo of some blown-down palm trees.

The 2024-2025 season goes down as The Season of Strange.

The lineup of The Reef's Greatest Hits of Weird: Sonic booms that had half of us googling "meteor, military, or quake?", wildfires blocking us from leaving or returning to our beloved island, Turkey Point alerts that left us frozen in the uncertainty of our futures, and mosquitoes arriving extra early like your least favorite relatives to your house for family dinner.

Let's take a stroll down memory lane and revisit the joyous and heart-pumping highlights of this surreal season:

The Boom Heard Across The Reef: 9:46 p.m., March 31, 2025

Windows shook. Doors rattled. Toilets flushed themselves. The no-warning blast was heard from The Residence Club to Coral Lane, from Sunrise Cay to Cinnamon Bark Lane. Someone on Exuma Road swore they got double-boomed (always trying to one-up the rest of us, right Exuma?). Whatever it was—it immediately triggered a ton of Big Bang theories: Could it be a group of newly-minted contractors unaware of demolition hours? A gender reveal party gone wrong? Or did Rob's eternally overloaded UPS truck finally explode under the pressure of delivering Sean Carroll's emergency bourbon stash?

Our Director of Club Security & Safety Sonny Vasquez confirmed with ORCA's higher-ups that it was Elon Musk's SpaceX Falcon 9 rocket launch from NASA's Kennedy Space Center that broke the sound barrier (hence, the boom in boom). Classic Elon! Wonder if he included it on the list of things he accomplished that week.

Mosquito Mayhem: 8 p.m. March 25, 2025 & 8:15 p.m. April 15, 2025

Warm and wet temperatures brought an uninvited species of biting freeloaders onto The Reef in late March and then again in the days leading up to Easter, shocking some seasonal Members under the impression bug season started after they left. Adorable. (To be clear, mosquito season is March through October).

Full-timers, of course, met the brief invasion with a resigned shrug. "Yes, they're called mosquitoes. Sadly, they don't politely wait for us to vacate."

A few pestering calls to The Florida Keys Mosquito Control District resulted in an 8 p.m. fog truck spraying (rolling through neighborhoods like an apocalypse with headlights), ruining evening walks and outside appetizers, but sending the bugs a strong message: "We'll be gone in two weeks. Could you maybe just not?"

The Wildfires: The Week of March 17, 2025

By land, sea, or air. Wait—scratch that. Getting to The Reef by land was, at best, iffy during the week-long 344 Fire (named after its starting location in Miami-Dade near Southwest 344th Street) of 2025.

As 26,000 acres of brush went up in flames across South Miami, Reef Members and associates found themselves in a traffic nightmare, often stuck on US-1 for hours. Getting from the island to the mainland and back was like trying to solve a puzzle where the pieces kept catching fire. The on-again, off-again openings and closings of US-1, coupled with the shutdowns of Card Sound Road, were as unpredictable as U.S. import tariffs.

But in true Reef fashion, the community rallied. Many Members and boat captains shifted into rescue chic, offering up their vessels as luxe water shuttles to and from Homestead and Miami marinas. For a week, arriving at The Reef by boat wasn't just practical—it was effortlessly bougie. Think water Ubers wearing big beautiful ORC Burgees.

After the fires fizzled, we were left with one searing question: How did the brush fires get started? The answer still remains the hottest topic of discussion at nightly Reef cocktail parties. Was it man-made or nature's doing or a dangerous collision of both? Chances are we will have to wait until next season to get the answer to this burning mystery.

Turkey Point Alert: 10:45 a.m. January 28, 2025

Mid-morning on what was supposed to be a peaceful Tuesday came the scariest text message any of us have ever received in our Reef life: "Turkey Point Nuclear Power Plant Site Area Emergency".

And even more odd-later in that same text, we were instructed to refer to a safety information postcard provided by FPL. Postcard? What postcard? You mean the one that went into the trash with the We Buy Houses for Cash mailer? The text gave new meaning to "Final Notice."

Then, after a deeply unnecessary soul-searching 11 minutes—during which we made peace with our past, with some regret on passing on that morning's second Mimosa, and seriously pondering why we didn't splurge for the hurricane window glass with gamma rays repellent—at 10:56 a.m., we were hit with three resuscitating back-to-back texts: False Alarm. No further action is required. Oh, okay. Glad we collectively aged a decade for nothing, Turkey Point!

By the way, did someone get reassigned to radar detection tester after accidentally pushing the big red Do-Not-Press-This-Unless-You're-Really-And-We-Mean-Really-Sure-This-IS-The End button? And could this tech-challenged turkey have sparked the brushfires as revenge?

Oh, how far and how easily we could sink into an abyss of conspiracy theories!

ORCA NEWS

Managing Invasive Iguanas at Ocean Reef

In Florida, iguanas are classified as an invasive species. As the weather warms up, these reptiles become increasingly active, and during this time of year, it's common to see them digging holes in Ocean Reef golf course sand traps or sandy-soil areas as they search for places to lay their eggs.

Understanding the reproductive cycle of iguanas helps explain their seasonal behavior and the urgency of management efforts. The breeding season typically begins in late fall to early winter (November–January), followed by the egg-laying period in May and June. A single female can lay between 20 and 70 eggs in one season. These eggs incubate for about 65 to 90 days, depending on environmental factors such as temperature and humidity. As a result, eggs laid in May usually hatch between late July and early September—adding to the population just in time for peak summer activity.

To manage this growing issue, ORCA contracts Iguana Control, a professional wildlife control service that specializes in the humane removal of iguanas, compliant with Florida state law. Their trained technicians use compressed air guns equipped with tactical optical sights—commonly known as pellet guns—to safely and effectively manage the population. The removal is conducted from a short, controlled distance, with the operator aiming from below the hip to always prioritize safety. This method of iguana control is proven to be effective.

For the privacy and protection of homeowners, ORCA does not permit the contracted vendor to enter private property. However, if you're experiencing issues with iguanas on your own lot, you are welcome to hire Iguana Control directly or consult with other licensed experts in the area for private removal services. It's important to note that while pellet guns may appear simple to use, they should only be handled by trained professionals or experienced individuals. Improper use can result in misfired pellets, which pose serious risks of injury or property damage.

ORCA is committed to maintaining the safety, privacy, and overall well-being of the community. By partnering with professional wildlife management services and encouraging homeowners to do the same, we can address the iguana issue without compromising safety or legality. If you have questions or need more information about iguana removal services, please contact the ORCA office at 305-367-ORCA (3622).

Member to the Rescue

by Terry Baxter

Ever since Tiger Woods tapped our own Executive Sushi Chef Eric Andreu to prepare sushi for his Champion's Dinner at the Masters Tournament, Ocean Reef has loaned some of our top culinary talents to Augusta National for this prestigious event. Chefs Eric and Kareem from the Islander have always been requested. This year, the contest produced a tournament-for-the ages, and Eric and Kareem were hard at work in the kitchen to satisfy the masses.

In the midst of the excitement, Kareem received a frantic phone call. His wife Thoneka was going into labor two weeks earlier than expected. She needed her husband. Eric and Kareem dropped everything. They worked the phones to find a flight back to Key Largo. Nothing was available until the next day, but the baby was coming NOW. Then, serendipity. The fates conspired to save the day. Long-term Ocean Reef Member Jim Segrave called his friend Eric Andreu to check in. The two had bonded for many years over the genial atmosphere of the Sushi Bar and excellent seafood. Jim says, "It's the only place I feel safe eating raw fish." Over the years both Kareem and Eric came over to Jim's house for a drink or dinner. He took them fishing. Jim had called to find out if they were getting time to see the furious action on the Augusta golf course? The casual phone call turned into a rescue mission.

As luck would have it, Jim Segrave is the owner of flyExclusive, the charter jet service based at Ocean Reef in the Plaza Building. As Eric explained the situation, Jim pledged to do anything he could to help. The stars aligned," Jim said, "I had a plane available." Jim contacted his dispatcher, and told Eric and Kareem he would have a plane in Georgia in two hours. As the only occupant of the flyExclusive Cessna Citation, Kareem enjoyed royal and compassionate treatment. Upon landing at Tamiami, Jim had his sales associate Monica with a car and driver waiting to whisk Kareem directly to the hospital only five miles away. "I have four children of my own," Jim said, "So I know how important family is."

"I wasn't there for the delivery," Kareem said, "But I was in time to share the joy of a new life." Thoneka's eyes flew open, she wasn't expecting Kareem for another long day. Kareem said, "It was the best surprise I have ever pulled off." Kareem's baby son, Bantu, got to snuggle in his arms. Mother and son are doing well. Jim said, "The best thing about my business is that sometimes you can move mountains. It was so rewarding to be part of Kareem's special moment."

Back at the Masters Tournament, Rory McIlroy won by a single stroke in sudden-death overtime to cap a career-long quest to win the Grand Slam of golf. A dramatic weekend with happy endings all around. Eric said Jim Segrave's instant reaction was typical of his experience with Members. "We know we can count on Members. We care about each other. We love them, and they love us. We are family. Relationships with Members make our jobs so much more than 'work.'" Jim Segrave said, "There are tons of wonderful Associates like Eric and Kareem all over The Reef. I've been fortunate to be in a position to give back." People like this make me proud to be a Member of Ocean Reef.

James Maida (left) and Paul Magno (right) are partners in a 35-year-old company, GLI, President and VP, respectively. They have been friends for well over 50 years and now became grandparents (the first time for James, second time for Paul) on the same day as James' daughter-in-law and Paul's daughter had babies at the same hospital on the same day and recuperated just a few door away from one another. FEATURED BOTTLE OF THE WEEK Carpano Antica Formula

The secret to a great Manhattan lies in the Vermouth you choose to use! At Port O' Call and the Spirits Bar, our sweet vermouth of choice is Carpano Antica Formula. Made from grapes (always Italian) and a secret recipe of other botanicals and spices, this Vermouth has robust flavor and complexity and can stand up to any spirit you're mixing it with. Another favorite cocktail of ours is the famed Negroni - equal parts Gin, Campari, and Sweet Vermouth - brings out the bitter herbal notes of Wormwood and burnt sugar in Carpano that pairs so instinctively with Gin. Vermouth can also be enjoyed without its boozier spirit counterparts for a lighter, low ABV cocktail, such as an Americano (not like the coffee), by mixing with a bitter amaro and topped with club soda. Come by Port O' Call to pick some up today (375mL bottle $24) or swing by the Spirits Bar to try it in a drink!

My friend Harold Brewer (HB), who does the fabulous Ocean Reef Press bird discussions and photos, recently came across a vintage Ocean Reef menu. It appears to be from the Madera Room in the 1960s (predecessor of the Ocean Room). What first caught Harold's eye was a dry martini cocktail for 85 cents. Knowing I would be charmed, he emailed me a photo of the menu.

What first caught MY eye was the exotic wild fowl on the menu – "Imported English Pheasant, Nottingham Partridge (two birds, $15), and Wild Mallard Duck for two ($12)." The descriptions were effusive. It seems we have always extolled our steaks. Over the years we have highlighted "Hand-carved, grass fed, free range, dry aged, Waygu," et al. The Madera Room menu praises "Our corn-fed Nebraska steer beef." Over the last 20 years I have enjoyed most of these iterations, but can confirm that our current Prime Allen Bros. beef, commissioned by CH Prime Executive Chef Ian Fleischman, is the best yet.

The description of the Key Lime Pie could have been written by Chat GPT Artificial Intelligence in full flower (if it had been invented in 1960). "Take everything beautiful in the Florida Keys – the exquisite colorings of the waters in the lagoons and around the reefs, the heavenly azure of the skies, the brilliant sunsets, the dazzling sunshine on the formations, translate these into dimensions of taste...and you'll have some concept of the treat that awaits you in our Key Lime Pie." Quite a bargain at 50 cents.

I remember seeing the same menu in the Cultural Center Museum (the museum was beautifully created by Stacy Schmetterer, Pat Baxter, Sarina Kinney and team). Humming Jim Croce's famous ballad, "If I Could Save Time in a Bottle," I stopped by the Museum to refresh my memory. I found a whole wall of early photos and menus. What fun to walk down Memory Lane. The prices are not the only surprises. The dining choices are from a different era. Under "Traditional Choices," are 10 entrees, among them Turtle Steak, "fresh caught in the shallows of the Hawk Channel," and Broad Creek Red Snapper, "grilled under open flames 'til its russet surface is dripping with tangy essences." Not to mention the Ham Steak, "cut by hand from the heart of a great Calhoun County Ham that's been cured with cane sugar and slow-smoked for 51 hours over young, green hickory saplings." Yikes. My mouth is watering.

It was happy to recall so many decades Ocean Reef Members have been enjoying special experiences. Thanks HB. For many other wonders of our early years, visit the Museum, open daily for a leisurely self-guided tour.

The Envelope, Please

by Rev. Dr.
Dan Meyer,
Chaplain-In-Residence

And the Award Goes To

Years ago, while living in Rancho Santa Fe, California, I performed the funeral of a man who'd served as personal attorney for the actor, John Wayne. The service drew a large gathering of people, many from Los Angeles and the world of entertainment. I recognized several famous faces there but the one I remember best was a man in a wheelchair and dark glasses, attended by an aide. His name was Glenn Ford.

Ford was one of the biggest box-office draws of the mid-twentieth century, appearing in films like "Gilda" (1946), "The Big Heat" (1953), the "Blackboard Jungle" (1955), and "Pocketful of Miracles" (1961), for which he won a Golden Globe. "Younger" people might remember him as Clark Kent's adoptive farmer father in the original "Superman" (1978) movie.

By many accounts, Glenn Ford was a complicated guy. Brilliant in so many ways, he also skirted the law, secretly taped people, and struggled with sustaining romantic relationships and few people have had so many of them. Wikipedia him and you'll be stunned by all the names you know.

Ford will be remembered by history for his rugged good looks, acting ability, and an ability to woo partners, but there was something more admirable about him that few people probably know.

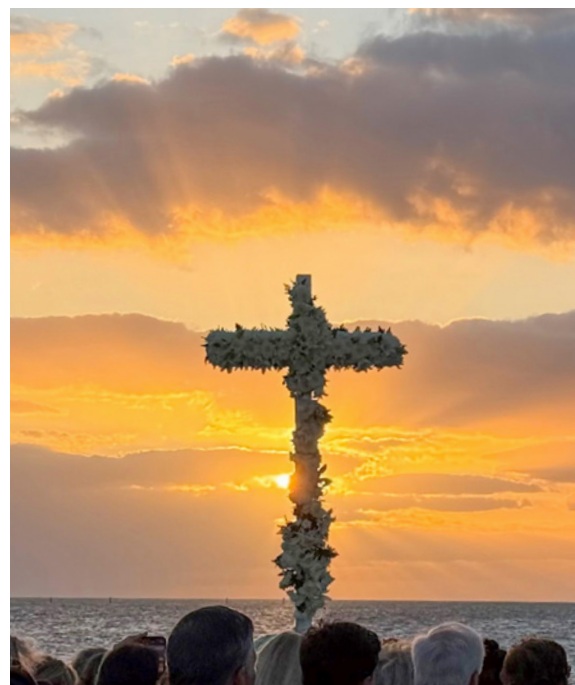

Glenn Ford wrote thank you notes.

When an Envelope Contains a Heart

Apparently, President Franklin

D. Roosevelt had sent Ford a note with an autographed photo when the actor was just 25. It inspired him so much that he later took up the pattern of writing notes to encourage young strivers too.

I know, because he wrote such a note to me, thanking me for the way I'd performed the funeral of his lawyer friend. It was handwritten, heartfelt, and greatly encouraged me during my early years as a pastor. I keep it still.

I'm told that the former CEO of Campbell's Soup took this practice to the next level. Conant is reputed to have written some 30,000 thank-you notes to employees over the course of a decade at Campbell's. He devoted nearly an hour a day to penning these notes, an eternity in the schedule of a Fortune 500 CEO. A busier person still -- President George H.W. Bush (41) -- was renowned for his handwritten thank you notes. Some of YOU may have one of them. Let me know!

Writing missives like this can become a learned practice, even by unlikely people. "Bloomberg Businessweek" carried a cover story in 2014, reporting that Mark Zuckerberg, the founder of Facebook/Meta had set an objective to write "a well-considered thank-you note every day, via e-mail or handwritten letter." Zuckerberg said: "It's important for me, because I'm a really critical person. I see how I want things to be better, and I'm generally not happy with how things are, or the level of service that we're providing for people, or the quality of the teams that we built." Mark saw thank you notes as a way to build up others and stretch his own heart.

Perhaps It's Time to Write

As the high season comes to a close here on The Reef, maybe it's time to drop a note to express your gratitude to someone who's been a blessing in your life over these past months or much longer.

Is there an associate whose wit, work, or warmth has impressed you? Is there a friend you've enjoyed but haven't gotten around to telling what it is that you especially appreciate about them? Is it a co-worker, a spouse or a family member whose day might change when they open that envelope and discover that they are more of a star than they knew.

And while we're on the topic, I just want to say thank you to YOU. My wife Amy and I started our life here three months ago today. You didn't know us but you welcomed us. You'd had in Jane and Bob Henley an irreplaceable pair of chaplains, but you opened your hearts to us anyway. You've asked us to share a meal or a concert. You've read some of my ramblings in these articles. You've joined me at the Chapel on Sundays or might just do that sometime in the future. Thank you for that.

NEWS FROM THE MEDICAL CENTER

Medication Reminders

Below are a few important reminders for Members who may be preparing to leave Ocean Reef for the season.

Medication Disposal:

Standard medications can be brought to the Medical Center to be disposed of safely. Controlled medications such as pain medications, opioids or others should be brought to Public Safety for disposal in the conveniently located medication drop box. All medications brought in for disposal should remain in their original containers.

Needle Disposal: The Medical Center can provide you with bio-hazard containers

If you will be leaving Ocean Reef for the season, it is advisable to follow the medication reminders provided by the Medical Center.

for needles and "sharps," and you can drop off those filled containers at the Medical Center for proper disposal by their contracted bio-hazard waste provider.

Medication Review:

Now is a good time to review medications in your medicine cabinet and check the expiration dates. Expired medications can lose efficiency once past their prime, and this is also true of over-the-counter drugs. Expired eye medications can be especially susceptible to contamination and harmful bacterial growth, including over-the-counter drops for dry eyes, so check these as well.

Automatic Pharmacy Refills

& Delivery: Please contact your Key Largo pharmacy and update the instructions for your automatically refilled prescriptions that are picked up by Public Safety. Once picked up by Public Safety, they cannot be returned or refilled by another pharmacy. This could leave you in a dilemma, especially when it's a critically needed medication. The Medical Center can support your off-season prescription needs by electronic communication with your preferred pharmacy.

Visit us on the web at www.mcor.org.

VISITING SPECIALIST SCHEDULE

Please bring your identification and insurance cards to each visiting specialist appointment. They bill separately from the Medical Center. To schedule with a visiting dermatologist, please call their office directly. Specialist with phone numbers do their own scheduling. For all other specialists, please call 305-367-6702.

What Are You Doing While You're Away?

Share Your Adventures With Your ORC Pals!

by Annie Miles

Many of you probably still can remember that first essay you had to write every year when school began in the fall: "What I Did on My Summer Vacation." Now that we are all grown up, Ocean Reefers get to do some amazing things during the months when they leave the heat of the Keys and head to homes in more temperate climates. Often this includes exciting travel around the world or trying new experiences as close as your own backyard. We receive pictures from friends during our time away from The Reef of gorgeous home gardens, adorable grandchildren, precocious pets, and exotic destinations. These photos help us realize how much we miss our ORC buddies and what fascinating experiences they have, even when not here in Paradise with us!

So, whatever in the world you are up to this off-season, think about sharing a photo, and a line or two, about the experience with the OR Press so we all can stay informed and in touch! Inquiring minds want to know! You may help out the editorial staff of our amazing newspaper when things slow down from the usual non-stop excitement here at The Reef, and they need some cool content to heat up the summer issues of the Ocean Reef Press.

So, this summer, why not send your most exceptional shots to our awesome Editor of the Ocean Reef Press, Holly Houser, and you might just see yourself, your hobby, your luscious veggie garden or your latest travel escapade in print! Just email orp@oceanreef.com. And don't worry, this assignment won't be graded! It's just for good old ORC fun!

Annie Miles with Roni Green, her best friend for over 50 years, make a bucket list trip to Apulia in the heel of the boot in Italy, and learn to make the local pasta favorite, orecchiette, at a local farm in Martina Franca.

Associate Spotlight: Joel Gabriel

by Susan
Bohan

For over 13 years Joel Gabriel has been taking care of Members' cars, no matter a "beat up" sedan (yes, he's seen them!), Rolls Royce, Lexus, Maserati or one of his favorites, a 1920s Ford Monterey.

He was just named Supervisor of the Quarter for his expertise as Lead Mechanic at the Service Station and I can personally attest to his abilities as he has handled three different cars in our family over the years. At present, he oversees four other Mechanics sharing with them many of the skills he learned in Mechanics School. Whether you need an oil change, tires and brakes checked, or something more serious, you know he is going to provide an honest evaluation, obtain the correct parts and do the work efficiently. And you will not even have to leave The Reef.

In my recent case, I purchased a used car big enough for family who like to go to the Miami Zoo or Key West during their visits. He found a defect that is fixable but inconvenient and offered to provide a complete examination pre-purchase next time. Lesson learned!

Joel credits the Members for his longevity at The Reef. His loyalty can be seen in the fact that his wife, Vivian, works for one of the Property Management companies, and each of his four children were able to attend The Academy. He is very proud of his family and considers himself lucky that his parents, brothers and sisters all live nearby.

When nominated by John Riley, Assistant Director of Banquet Operations, his reason for doing so was simple. "Joel can be viewed on a daily basis handling a wide range of responsibilities at the Service Station with a calm and collective demeanor. He does an excellent job." And anyone who has seen his calendar knows his talents are in demand. Rightly so!

FARMER'S MARKET LAST HURRAH OF SEASON

That's a wrap! The Farmer's Market was a big success at the Field at Four Corners, with a variety of foods and overall wonderful goodies, and we look forward to its return next season. Thank you to all the vendors and to Gemma Matthews (center), Commercial Properties Senior Manager, for making this possible all season long!

An Active April for The Dive Shop

By Lisa Bailey Cassidy, Co-owner of The Dive Shop

April has brought lots of activity to The Dive Shop at The Reef through diving, snorkeling and PADI Open Water and Discover Scuba certifications of Ocean Reef Members. Four hundred plus (400+) corals were outplanted with Reef Renewal USA (RRUSA) with the help of ORC Members Jamie and Paul Benario.

Renewing The Reef Together: The Carysfort Project

Highlighting our April events, The Dive Shop and Watson Luxury Properties co-hosted ORC Members at an awe-inspiring gathering at the Cultural Center featuring Emmy-winning underwater cinematographer Frazier Nivens presenting his "Beauty of the Reef" film followed by keynote speaker Ken Nedimyer, founder of Reef Renewal USA and known as the "father of coral restoration". Ken's compelling presentation to Ocean Reef Members focused on the progress of coral restoration efforts as well as the new collaborative ORC Member participation programs in coral propagation and outplanting at Carysfort Reef. Ken's work has significantly contributed to the health and recovery of reefs in the Florida Keys.

Also featured, was artist Jen Aquia (Aquia Fine Arts) showcasing her talented paintings capturing the essence of Carysfort marine life and more. These deeply personal custom paintings are created in pastel or pencil and go beyond capturing a likeness, they tell a story. Her specialty is people, pets and marine life. If you can imagine it, Jen can bring it to life on canvas. One of the featured paintings below is of the Carysfort Reef underwater world and coral restoration work being done. How many of your favorite underwater creatures, as well as Ken (RRUSA), can you find pictured in her painting below? Jen can be reached at www.afinearts.com or 305-619-1302 for more information.

The event wrapped up with a festive meet and greet thanks to John Hunt, Lisa Dykes, the Cultural Center, Ocean Reef Catering, Toski's, and Card Sound Golf Club. A host of gratitude to our generous local ORC business supporting sponsors of Reef Gallery, Sandpiper Unique Boutique, Waltz Landscaping and Wynn's Market and of course our Key Sponsor Watson Luxury Properties. Many thanks to supporters Barrett and Tina Ersek and Ed and Shelly Poulton. For more information on how to get involved and upcoming RRUSA programs, contact The Dive Shop at 305-367-3051 or info@thediveshoporc.com. For more information on how to support the efforts of Reef Renewal USA and The Carysfort Project

Eco Fair 2025

Easter Show Celebrates a Season of Talent

"Art League"
by Deborah Goodwin
Geller

Last Friday night the Art League held its annual Easter Show featuring an abundance of work from our members who participated in classes, workshops and pop ups through the season. As usual there was a large table of food to enjoy while perusing the works of friends and strangers in all fields.

One of the things I enjoy hearing at these types of events, is the curiosity of Ocean Reef Members who have never taken a class. Joanna Silverman and Pam Cook were amazed by the large fish quilt which displayed different techniques than you may normally see in quilting.

Annie Garlich had submitted quite a few pieces in mediums such as stained glass (a family tree that was her favorite), embroidery (because she felt she wasn't good at needle point), and quilting (pictured below) because it brought back memories of her mother.

Kari Rominski brought her father along to enjoy the show and see what she had created in fused glass, mosaics and jewelry.

One of the outstanding pieces in the show for me was the Sea Horse Bronze by Esther Lerner Carrico. I had seen it in its 'clay' form but now with the bronze completed it was truly worthy of any art gallery or museum.

That's the fun of the Art League. The variety of options gives you the chance to 'try' something once and if you like it take it to a whole new level year after year. If you have no confidence you are guided by an expert teacher and get to learn with other newbies. I hope you will consider the offerings we will have next season and join us to try your hand at something new.

Bavarian Soft Cheese Dip

Serves Six

by Betania Salles,
Carysfort
Kitchen Chef
de Cuisine

Well...we are going a little out of the ordinary with this recipe but we made this dip for some Members and there were many requests to share it, so here it is.

It is a delicious cheese dip with a touch of caraway seed which bring a marvelous flavor to the mix. I couldn't find Austrian beer so I used Mexican Negra Modelo instead.

Ingredients:

- 8 oz. Camembert, (or other soft cheese like Brie)
- 8 oz. spreadable cheese, (Original Laughing Cow is perfect)
- 1/3 cup butter
- 2 1/2 tsp. sweet paprika
- 2 tsp. caraway seed, ground
- salt and pepper to taste
- 1/4 cup Negra Modelo beer, (most likely will use a bit less)
- 1/3 cup Vidalia onion, finely diced
- 1 small bunch chives (finely chopped, 2 tbsp. for dip and the rest for garnish)

Directions:

- Bring the Camembert (cut in small pieces), spreadable cheese and butter (cut in small pieces) to room temperature.
- In a mixing bowl add the Camembert, spreadable cheese, butter, paprika, caraway seeds, salt and pepper and beer and press using a fork until well mixed together. Start by adding only 2 tbsp. of the beer and keep adding until you reach the desired consistency (should be spread-like not runny).
- Cover with a lid or plastic wrap and refrigerate for three hours to firm up.
- Just before you are ready to serve take the dip out of the refrigerator.
- Run the diced onion under water (use a strainer) and dry off with paper towel before using.
- Add the diced onion and chopped chives to the dip and fold until they are well incorporated.
- Garnish with the remaining chives.
- Serve with pretzels or thinly sliced onions and radishes or sliced rye bread.

Heads Up & Hats On

One of the things I like best about a hat is that it gives me another surface to paint.... Over the years I have painted my eyeglasses (many pairs), my shoes, my handbags, my exercise tights and various pieces of inexpensive jewelry. Then during Covid, I decided to paint a hat to go with my mask.... It was fun and during subsequent years I painted four more hats. I kept two and gave two away.... Last month on a visit to the Burgee Shop, I discovered a hat I liked so much, I just had to get out my paint brush and take a chance that I wouldn't mess it up.... The hat (see my selfie top left) is the Emery from Cark by Wallaroo $70. In addition to being great looking, it has an adjustable inside strap that guarantees a good fit. And there is a magnetic attraction that allows you to personalize the brim with an attractive metal Ocean Reef Burgee.... Pictured top center is the Cantelle ($160), one of the painted hats sold at the Spa that served as my inspiration.... Also at the Spa (pictured top right) is one of a selection of Big hats, currently in fashion ($240). It is modeled by Sarai, a massage therapist at the Spa.... At J. McLaughlin I found the next hat I would like to buy. It is the Delia Straw bucket style ($98). I thought it looked mighty nice on member Mandy Kennedy (bottom left).... You can't talk about hats without talking about caps. Many Ocean Reef stores have them. But perhaps the best selection is at the Golf Shop. That's where Martha Johnston found the pink checkered ORC cap she is shown wearing here ($39). It is part of her personal uniform for Zumba.... If there is a Celebration of Hats, it is Derby Day. The Kentucky Derby takes place next Saturday May 3, and if you want a wild but beautiful chapeau for a Derby OR event, go directly to The Dress Code on Barracuda Lane. The little feathered head dress pictured here is one of several amazing choices. I promise you can pick a winner.

The Academy Heats up the Stage at the Cultural Center

by Jerome
Murphy,
Head of School

Academy students recently shined under the bright lights at the Cultural Center for their annual spring musical. With a cast of over 70 students, a third of whom were under the age of five, the children performed "Frozen" in front of packed house for two consecutive shows on April 9 and 10.

Outfitted with adorable costumes and a beautiful scenic backdrop, the children danced and sang to their hearts delight, much to the pleasure of everyone in the audience.

This year's cast began rehearsals in October, meeting twice a week for two hours, in preparation for our April performances. As showtime neared, we transported all of our students for two consecutive weeks to the Cultural Center for dress rehearsals, 8:30-10 a.m. each day.

With the help of our gracious host and President of the Cultural Center John Hunt, and his professional sound and lighting team, our children were delighted to learn how stage microphones worked, and even more excited to learn about makeup and dressing rooms!

Contributing to the team effort, The Academy was blessed to have the guidance of our Stage Manager, Kyle Landers, and Choreographer, Caitlin Bennett, working with our Performing Arts Director, Dr. Joey Celmer, and all of our students throughout the six-month rehearsal process!

As The Academy's Head of School for the last five years, I always find myself filled with so much institutional pride at this time of year, due to the spring musical performances of our students. This year was no different! Our children worked so hard for the last six months, and their performance on stage served as a genuine testament to those efforts. Broadway, here we come!

More than 70 students performed in The Academy's rendition of "Frozen" earlier this month.

Baobab Collection Candles:

The Art of Scented Luxury

"Spa Notes" by Michelle Santiago, Spa Manager

As the season comes to a close, one retail line I continue to adore is Baobab Collection candles. As a true candle enthusiast, I often find myself asking — how could it possibly get better than Baobab? Their fragrances are unmatched, and their stunning vessels are a statement all on their own. If you've had the pleasure of visiting the Spa Boutique, you've likely experienced the beauty of these candles firsthand — their scent lingers in the air, warm and inviting, and truly unforgettable. Founded in 2002 in the heart of Belgium, the Baobab Collection has quickly grown from a niche name to a global symbol of high-end home fragrance and decorative elegance.

More than just a source of fragrance or light, each Baobab candle is a sensory experience — a carefully curated blend of scent, design, and craftsmanship. The brand draws inspiration from far-flung places, ancient rituals, and natural wonders. With names like "Sand Sonora," "Seaside," or "Paris," each collection evokes a narrative, transporting you to a different time or place with a single flicker of flame.

Baobab candles are known for their striking appearance. Encased in hand-blown glass or exquisitely crafted vessels, they double as decor pieces that effortlessly blend into both modern and classic interiors. Their sizes range from small vessels to five-wick centerpieces, making them suitable for everything from intimate spaces to luxury hotel lobbies. Once burned, the stunning glass containers are often reused as vases or design pieces — a nod to the brand's commitment to sustainability and timelessness.

The real magic of a Baobab candle lies in its scent. Using high-quality raw materials, the fragrances are developed by top perfumers in Grasse, France the historic capital of perfumery. Each scent is multilayered, designed not only to smell beautiful but to evoke a specific mood or memory. Baobab

Collection is not only about luxury but also responsibility. The brand is committed to ethical sourcing and supports various initiatives in Africa, where much of its aesthetic and inspiration is rooted. From their packaging to their partnerships, there's a conscious effort to blend beauty with purpose.

In a market saturated with home fragrance options, Baobab Collection has carved out a niche by offering more than just products — they offer stories, craftsmanship, and emotion. Whether you're seeking a thoughtful gift, an interior design statement, or simply a candle that lasts and lingers, Baobab is a name that delivers all that and more. The Spa Boutique is now offering an exclusive discount on all Baobab Collection candles. Simply mention this article at checkout to receive your special savings — a perfect opportunity to bring home one of these luxurious scents.

Dolphin Course Upgrades

in their golf cart. This summer, Director of Agronomy Eric Bennett and his staff will be implementing several repairs and improvements to the courses, which will facilitate Member use and further complement the stunning landscapes.

Work on a beautiful new green for hole #5 of the Dolphin Course begins May 5 and will add 15-20 yards to the hole. Repairs will be made to cart paths on both courses including pruning tree roots that impact turf or the paths. There will be extensive tree work on both courses and vine removal on the Hammock Course. As we do in the summer time, we have landscape upgrades planned for both courses.

Other housekeeping measures to improve play include aerating all greens on both courses, which Bennett feels will be the most impactful cultural practices this summer. "We will include a 'drill and fill' which provides larger deeper holes with sand injection on the greens." Greens, short grass and rough will benefit from aggressive mowing and top-dressing based on those areas' specific needs. All "cultural practices," or the means by which turf is maintained in pristine condition, will be completed by November 1, 2025.

When asked if he had any tips for Members on how to keep their personal landscaping green and gorgeous like the golf courses, Bennett said the use of native plants is key as they offer ease of maintenance and thrive in our harsh summer environment. He notes the best grass choices are Zoysia or St. Augustine. Zoysia has a finer leaf texture and is more aesthetically pleasing but is more difficult to maintain. Both require close to the same amount of watering. He suggests that "appropriate grass choices, proper maintenance and a good variety of native plants will provide a beautiful backdrop for more showy and exotic plants that will capture the eye and become the focal point of the lawn."

A Family Affair on the Finish Line

A look back through this season's Fun Run winners reveals a pattern - the Kopczynski, Bissell, and Hallow families representing atop the podium at many of the Ocean Reef walk/runs. Quite the winning streak!

Barbara Kopczynski shared the impressive results: daughter Caroline Kopczynski took home 1st place overall in the Medical Center's 5K on Saturday, March 8; Barbara and her son Thomas "Rex" Hallow tied for 1st place in the 5K walking division; and daughter Morgan Hallow claimed overall 1st in the Shamrock & Roll 10K the following Saturday, March 15. The momentum didn't end there, with Barbara and husband Todd claiming second and third place (respectively) in their individual walking divisions during last Saturday's Bunny Hop, which marked the last of the traditional in-season 5K runs.

As Barbara noted, with seven children between she and Todd, six of whom are Legacy Members (the seventh to join in 2027), many may not realize that the Kopczynski, Bissell, and Hallow families are all related, making these shared victories even sweeter.

"A powerhouse family showing for sure," she said, adding that her father, Howard C "Smoky" Bissell, is a very proud grandfather.

The family looks forward to continuing their support for Club events in the future. "We love everything Ocean Reef organizes," Barbara shared. "We're always happy to be part of it."

Barbara Kopczynski (center) and son Rex Hallow (right) win 1st Place Overall Walkers at the Medical Center 5K Fun Run.

Morgan Hallow, 1st place Overall Female at the 10K Shamrock n' Roll.

Bunny Hop 2nd Place Female Walker Barbara Kopczynski.

Bunny Hop 2nd Place Male Walker Hudson Saborido and 3rd Place Todd Kopczynski.

Paul Flanigan, A Life of Fitness & Meaning

"Fitness Focus"
by Luis Bracamonte,
Director of Fitness &
Wellness

Paul Flanigan is a lifelong athlete, adventurer, and wellness champion. We wanted to learn more about his fitness and sports history, habits, and what keeps him energized and inspired to keep working hard and challenging himself to stay physically and mentally strong.

Let's start at the beginning. What was your background in sports growing up?

I played almost everything in high school — football, basketball, tennis, lacrosse. I wasn't great at any of them, just average, but I loved to play. I tried to play lacrosse in college but gave it up to focus on my studies. What's always driven me is personal challenge. I've raced bicycles, cars, and sailboats. I've captained boats, scuba and skin dived, flown planes, and ridden motorcycles. I never wanted to look back and say, "I wish I had..."

Have you always been as active and healthy as you are now?

It started when I was a sophomore at Notre Dame. My roommate was a football player and a Chicago weightlifting champion. He introduced me to strength training, and I've never looked back. Even as a young accountant and later in law school, I committed an hour a day to my physical health—lifting or running—and a few minutes to my spiritual health.

That routine has stayed with me through every phase of life: career changes, marriage, kids, and now grandkids. I've been lucky to work out with all of them.

These days, I warm up on a shoulder bike or Peloton, then do eight exercises—three sets each—alternating muscle groups, with a lap walk between each set. I get about 1.5 miles of walking in per workout. I like my sessions to last around an hour and be of good intensity.

Paul and Michelle Flanigan.

I also ride a hybrid road bike about 25 miles through Ocean Reef roads when I'm here. It gets my heart rate to 130–145 — easier on the knees than running. And now, I'm working toward a 5K by the end of the year. I'm up to jogging a mile at a 12–13 minute pace before my knee complains.

What's one standout memory from your fitness journey?

Years ago, my wife Michelle and I used to run about three miles up A1A and walk home on Sunday mornings. One day, I asked her if she wanted to run the Fort Lauderdale Half Marathon with me — she passed, but I signed up.

Unfortunately, we both got food poisoning the night before. It wasn't good. But I thought about my grandfather, a frogman at Normandy Beach on D-Day. I imagined the sea sickness, the nerves. They couldn't call in sick. They were committed. I decided that if he could do that, I could do this. So I hydrated with four bottles of Gatorade, walked to the starting line, and took it one mile at a time. I finished in about 1:50.

That experience reminded me that you are capable of so much more than you think.

What does your wellness routine look like — fitness, nutrition, mindset?

I've been blessed with a strong body, a sharp mind, and a compassionate heart. Every morning, I spend a few quiet minutes listening for guidance from the Holy Spirit and reflecting on my blessings and the responsibilities that come with them.

Running the Fort Lauderdale Half Marathon is a standout memory for Paul.

I eat and drink everything in moderation. I enjoy wine every night while making dinner for Michelle. I aim for an hour of exercise a day and eight hours of sleep. That's my core.

What advice would you offer to fellow Members and colleagues?

I wouldn't presume to advise anyone here — everyone at Ocean Reef has accomplished so much. But I can share a few principles that have worked for me:

Despite a few setbacks along the way, Paul Flanigan has always put physical fitness, recovery and wellbeing at the top of his priorities.

- Be authentic — like Popeye said, "I am what I am."
- Be happy — it's a choice.
- Be kind and care for others.
- Don't waste time.
- Be the best you can be; in the time you've got.

Anything else you want to leave us with?

There's a quote from the Navy SEALs I love: "The only easy day was yesterday."

That spirit — showing up, staying strong, and embracing life's challenges — has carried me through it all.

COAST GUARD AUXILIARY

Led Zeppelin for Cruising Couples

by Fiona and Randy Woods, US Coast Guard Auxiliary Ocean Reef

When summer cruising season starts, we turn to Led Zeppelin's iconic song, "Whole Lotta Love," to inspire preparations for another ocean odyssey. You probably remember the wisdom of the rocker refrain from 1969 that goes like this:

Wanna Whole Lotta Love
Wanna Whole Lotta Love
Wanna Whole Lotta Love
Wanna Whole Lotta Love

Safety at sea on a double-handed voyage with your roommate, spouse, partner and co-captain begins with a candid assessment of the crew's physical and mental fitness for navigating your vessel within a challenging geography.

Body batteries must be fully charged and minds fully focused. This shared commitment to preparedness is part of what creates that whole lotta love that keeps you both safe and safely aboard.

There are no passengers on board for partner voyages. Everyone is the coxswain, deckhand, meteorologist, engineer, navigator, lookout, naturalist, cook and medic. The crew of two is united in actions that carry the ship through all the vagaries of the sea, turns of the tide, weather whims and marine traffic.

Experienced partnerships find a whole lotta love, and reliable ways to communicate, using practiced and efficient methods to anchor or dock. Adherence to proven routines reduces stress and surprises. Each partner should be able to handle the boat, call for help, and anchor or reach port safely if the other becomes incapacitated.

For boats, as for people, running on near-empty severely limits options. Just as your relationship needs that whole lotta love, your vessel needs full tanks and well-maintained systems. Top-up fuel, coolant, and lubricants regularly. Keep water tanks replenished even if you have a water maker. Maintain batteries, systems, equipment, safety and survival gear in a state of readiness. Know where things aboard are located, and how to access and use your equipment.

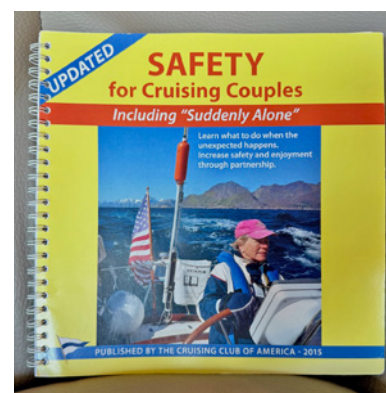

Redundancy of systems and spares can keep a boat in motion. Changing parts on people is complex and requires a hospital. Vessels should be kept shipshape and organized, with equipment secured, and decks and passageways clear to prevent falls. Protect feet, hands and heads when necessary. Feed each other, and communicate your intentions clearly, whether underway, at anchor, or in port. Watchkeeping and situational awareness involves a whole lotta love which means keeping an eye on your surroundings, and on your partner aboard.

Bad things can happen fast on boats. Crew and vessel preparedness can prevent one unexpected but containable event from becoming a cascade of failures leading to catastrophe.

Whatever psychology exists in terrestrial partnerships is magnified at sea, particularly when difficult passages and circumstances arise. Books have been written on the subject, but you probably already know that a whole lotta love is eternal and can survive beyond the boundaries of normal experience.

Partners share responsibility for good fortune and for bad, including errors and accidents.

The Cruising Club of America's excellent book for cruising couples, provided by Chuck Cook, offers in depth and detailed advice.

Six Rules for Cruising Couples:

1. Wear a PFD (life jacket) on deck with an installed water-activated locator beacon.
2. Do not go overboard underway or unexpectedly.
3. Always know where your partner is aboard.
4. Share responsibility for all events aboard.
5. Communicate as if your lives depend on it.
6. Find yourselves a whole lotta love.

The latest PLB (Personal Locator Beacons) activate on immersion and transmit a global rescue request plus AIS (Automatic Information System) information instantly to nearby boats.

TENNIS TIP

"The Serve: It's Not Just a Ball Toss..."

by Chiara Rebecchi,
Tennis &
Pickleball
Concierge

Listen... if you're still just lobbing the ball up like you're offering it to the tennis gods and hoping for a miracle, we need to talk.

Your serve is the only shot you control 100% — no opponent, no pressure, just you, the ball, and hopefully not a double fault. So why are you still serving like it's amateur hour at a ping-pong tournament?

Work on your toss, your rhythm, your motion. Practice those second serves. Make your serve a weapon, not a liability.

Here's what you need to do:

- 1. Toss like you mean it — not too far, not too close. Somewhere between "I'm a pro" and "Oops, I dropped it."
- 2. Use your legs — this isn't just an upper-body arm fling; bend those knees! Think of it like launching a rocket, not flipping a pancake.
- 3. Hit Up & Through the ball — we're not swatting flies here. Visualize smacking that fuzzy yellow ball into next week.

Bonus Strategy: Mix up your serve placements. T into the body. Wide to open the court. Make your opponent guess, doubt, and suffer. You're not just serving — you're starting a psychological war.

Throughout this season, we have met for 1,435 nine-hole rounds of golf. Surprisingly, we did not have to cancel a single event throughout the season due to inclement weather. Although, we can recall the Holiday Scramble back in December, where hand warmers were a necessary tee gift,

I am sad to say my time is ending here at ORC. It has been a great 12 year run. Considering how we started, look how far we have come. That is due to your support and participation as well as my guidance. There will be a farewell party held at the Card & Games Room on Wednesday, April 30 at 4 p.m. Please stop by and celebrate if you can!

I plan to be here in May and June and will continue to run duplicate games as long as we have attendance.

BRIDGE TIP

Basic Bidding – Overcalls

by Gregg Van Dyke, Bridge Director

When you've been playing bridge for a while, it's very tempting to experiment with new conventions, but it's actually much more valuable to ensure that you're playing a simple system properly and giving accurate and useful information to your partner. Familiarity breeds contempt, and players often forget the principles on which the bidding rules they were taught were based, so it's a good idea to refresh your memory occasionally.

Suit Overcalls

When the opponents have opened the bidding, it's usually only worth competing if you are (a) very strong, or (b) have a good quality long suit, or both. The sort of flat hand on which you would have opened a (12-14) 1NT is often better suited to defense.

A simple suit overcall doesn't require very many points, but it promises a good quality suit of at least five cards. If you're considering whether or not to overcall, always ask yourself "if my partner ends up on opening lead, do I want him to lead this suit?" If you overcall on J10976 and your partner dutifully leads that suit, declarer may be able to cash AKQ and discard a loser in another suit in where your side holds the top cards. Without your overcall, your partner may well choose a much better lead.

Measuring 'Quality'

To get a rough idea of the quality of a suit, you add the number of cards in the suit to the number of honors in the suit, only counting a Jack as an honor if you have a higher honor as well. For example, AK875 is quality 7 (five cards with two honors), AKJ763 is quality 9, but J10976 is only quality 5.

A simple suit overcall requires:

- At the one level:
8-16
HCP (High Card Points) and a 5+ card suit of quality at least 7
- At the two level:
10-16
HCP and a 5+ card suit of quality at least 8

But note:

- Do not overcall at the two level if you can overcall at the one level unless your hand meets all the criteria for a jump overcall.
- With 18+ HCP, double first and show your suit on the next round. That tells partner that you doubled because you were too strong to overcall.
